Family law is not a stand alone issue. If you are dealing with a family law matter you need a firm that has the depth and resources to provide seamless legal advice across all of the areas that impact you, your children, your business and your personal wealth. In this regard, Lavan Legal's family law team together with our partners in corporate and tax, property and planning, private wealth and wills and estates have delivered significant strategic advantages to Lavan Legal's family law clients.

Our family law team, led by partner Framy Anne Browne, has extensive experience in all aspects of family law. The team has dealt with matters of considerable commercial and factual complexity including matters involving asset tracing and unravelling financial arrangements involving partnerships, superannuation, companies and trusts.

The team has represented clients living in Australia and overseas, and in matters involving international jurisdictions such as the United States of America, the United Kingdom, Malaysia, Singapore and New Zealand. They have also represented clients in complex child-related matters involving international law and relocation.

The team works diligently to resolve matters through mediation thereby avoiding the expense, delay and uncertainty of litigation.

As Lavan Legal is a full service firm, unlike the boutique family law firms, our clients have the benefit of anonymity when visiting our offices to discuss a family law matter.

Lavan Legal managing partner Dean Hely said, 'We are proud to have established a successful family law team under Framy Anne Browne. Family law is multi-faceted. By combining family law with our corporate, property and private wealth teams we bring a comprehensive range of services to our family law clients'.

Partner Framy Anne Browne said, 'At the outset, we envisaged the important benefits a full service approach would deliver for family law clients. The results have exceeded those expectations'.
